1. What and when is WEAAD?

The International Network for the Prevention of Elder Abuse and the World Health Organization at the United Nations (UN) launched World Elder Abuse Awareness Day (WEAAD) on June 15, 2006 in an effort to unite communities around the world in raising awareness about elder abuse.

WEAAD encourages national, state, and local organizations to raise awareness about elder abuse, neglect, and exploitation and empowers communities to get involved and take action.

2. Why does WEAAD matter to youth?

- Caring about elder abuse is caring about justice for all.
- Youth can advocate for older people in their communities and help create a stronger society that prevents elder abuse from occurring.
- WEAAD is an opportunity to build and strengthen intergenerational relationships.
- Educating our communities about the role everyone can play in preventing elder abuse means we are supporting all of us as we age.

3. What is Elder Abuse? (Types & Signs)

Elder abuse is an intentional act or failure to act that causes or creates a risk of harm to an older adult. Elder abuse affects older people across all socioeconomic groups, cultures, and races and can occur anywhere when people are disconnected from social supports.
